The Religious Roots of Europe

MASTER'S PROGRAMME | 120 ECTS CREDITS

Programme overview

The Religious Roots of Europe (RRE) is a two-year Nordic Master's programme offered by the Centre for Theology and Religious Studies at Lund University in cooperation with the universities of Aarhus, Copenhagen and Oslo. The programme is focused on the formative periods of Judaism, Islam and Christianity, their common roots, early interaction and contributions to European culture. The programme prepares students for educational and social work in a multireligious society or research on the role of the three religions in European history and society. Through the programme, students acquire detailed knowledge about the formation of the three religions and their interaction with one another, as well as skills relevant for any occupation or study where the role of the three religions is of importance.

The programme is unique in its focus on the formation of all three religions in a comparative perspective. As a joint Nordic programme it gives students access to the professors and research of four different universities, as well as to the Nordic institutes in Rome, which are associated to the programme.

Lund University, as well as its partners, is internationally recognised for its research in this field of study. The use of e-learning, local tutorials, and joint Nordic compact seminars provides a unique combination of campus studies and exchange with students based at other universities.

Programme modules/courses

COMPULSORY COURSES WITH NUMBER OF CREDITS:

The Study of Ancient Religion (15), The Emergence of Judaism, Christianity & Islam (15), Holy Scriptures: Judaism, Christianity, and Islam (10), Interreligious Relations: Defining Moments, Current Encounters (10) Thesis Colloquium (10), Master's thesis (30).
ELECTIVES: Interaction, text, or ancient language courses (5x10 ECTS).

The teaching combines e-learning, compact seminars, course assignments, tutorials and traditional teaching. Student mobility is essential to the programme. As a student you are expected to participate in compact seminars at the other Nordic host institutions and at the Nordic institutes in the Mediterranean Area. Travel and accommodation are financed by the students. These extra expenses will be in the order of EUR 3 500 for the two years of study.

CAREER PROSPECTS

The formation of multi-religious societies in Europe and the increasing role of religion today create a need for individuals with an in-depth knowledge of the formation and history of religions, especially Judaism, Christianity and Islam, as well as a need for future research in the field. A graduate from this programme will be able to enter into specialised occupations in churches, government institutions or organisations dealing with culture, integration or diplomacy and in private firms with business relations with the Middle East. The programme also provides an excellent basis for PhD studies.

About the Centre for Theology and Religious Studies

The study of theology has been part of the curriculum of Lund University since its inauguration in 1668. The Centre for Theology and Religious Studies is the largest department within the field of Humanities and Theology at the university. At the Centre courses are offered in History of Religions, Human Rights, Islamology, Religious Studies and Theology. The courses lead to different degrees such as Bachelor of Theology, Bachelor of Arts, Master of Theology and Master of Arts. The department also offers course programmes for PhD students.

The research activities and PhD programme at the department are pursued in eleven different subjects with internationally recognised and eminent research in several areas, including Early Christian Studies, Judaism and Islam. Research is particularly strong in the areas of New Testament Studies, Early Christian Studies and Church History.
